

Cork City Libraries'

7th Annual SHORT STORY Competition

Cork City Libraries celebrate the emerging writer by inviting teenagers aged 13-18 years to enter the Cork City Libraries' Short Story Competition!

There are no theme restrictions, and entries should be between 1000-4000 words.

Those short-listed will receive a written critique of their work by local writer Kevin Doyle.

The winner will be announced as part of World Book Festival during Teen Day on Thursday, 24 April 2014, in the City Library, Grand Parade.

Each story should be accompanied by a cover sheet with the writer's name, address, email address, telephone number, school address, title of piece and word count.

Shortlisted entries will appear on the Writing Room (<http://writingpresscorkcitylibraries.wordpress.com>).

€200 First Prize

2 runner-up prizes of €50
